

ALLIED, JAP FLEETS LOCKED IN BATTLE

'Greatest Since Jutland,' Britain Declares

By LEO V. DOLAN
LONDON, May 8—What Great Britain regarded as the greatest naval battle since Jutland raged in the blue waters of the Coral sea today, with the fate of Australia, perhaps hanging on the outcome.

Every scrap of news from General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters was read with avid interest and initial reports indicated that the Japanese were clearly on the losing end. The first communique from Tokyo alleging heavy American losses was discounted, mainly because the enemy claimed to have sunk a British battleship of the Warspite class. No vessel of this category—or any British battleship whatever—is participating in the operations, the admiralty said in an official announcement.

Japs Feel U. S. Fire
The Japanese fleet which ran straight into the line of American fire and learned for the first time what it means to meet American gunnery on even terms is believed to have swept southward from the Marshall islands.

British observers believed the enemy was aiming a further encirclement of Australia by a landing on the islands of New Hebrides or New Caledonia, where American troops now are in action, or perhaps even more ambitiously attempting an invasion of Australia itself.

The gravity of the situation as expressed by Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia was fully re-echoed in London, where fresh news was anxiously awaited.

Should the Japanese claims be substantiated, losses on both sides would be about equal. The admiralty's announcement, however, had the effect of making the enemy claims look fabricated from start to finish, but there was no way of knowing.

Britain was cheered by General Douglas MacArthur's first statement that American losses were "light," at least in the initial stages.

ELEVEN OF TOKYO'S VESSELS SENT DOWN BY AMERICAN GUNS

Aircraft Carrier, Cruiser Go Down During Great Struggle In Coral Sea, North Of Australia; Fight Rated Crucial One

By LEE VAN ATTA
UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 8—With 11 Japanese warships, including an aircraft carrier and a cruiser, already sunk by American guns, a major naval battle raged north of Australia today that may spell success or failure of Japan's attempts to invade this island continent.

Five other Japanese vessels were seriously damaged as United States warships and bombing planes swept into action.

There was every indication the naval engagement would prove to be the most important clash of the Pacific war to date, exceeding in magnitude the battle of the Macassar Straits in which Japan lost at least 40 percent of a 100-ship fleet.

The battle ranged over a wide area of the azure Coral sea south of the Solomon islands. Ships and planes of the opposing fleets both played an active part. Latest reports said that eight enemy planes had been shot down in the engagement.

This is the battle that may decide control of the seas north of Australia.

If the United Nations win, Japan's immediate threat to Australia may be eliminated.

If victory goes to the enemy, the long and tedious task of building up for offensive attack must be started anew. A communique from General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, listing only a portion of the 11 enemy ships known to have been sunk, said:

"A great naval battle is now taking place in the southwest Pacific area."

Lights Ablaze

The battle still was in progress as night fell and the lights blazed in General MacArthur's headquarters.

Fragmentary reports continued to flow in telling of the progress of the clash, without a doubt the most important battle of the war to date.

Newspaper correspondents cheered like fans in the bleachers when an Army spokesman officially announced the sinking of an enemy aircraft carrier and high ranking officers made no effort to conceal official pleasure over the apparent sharp reversal of the trend in the battle of the Pacific.

For all their vainglorious claims of losses inflicted on the United Nations fleet, the Japanese up to a late hour had not conceded a single loss of their own.

The communique announcing the engagement was the first issued by Vice-Admiral Herbert F. Leary, U.S.N., commander of Anzac naval forces, since he took over command, which in itself emphasized importance of the battle.

Fury of the American attack surprised Australians, who read the first communique with utmost excitement. All newspapers published them under banner headlines.

Revenge May Be Gained

Most of the American naval officers now in this area are veterans either of Pearl Harbor or the Java sea battle. Their desire for revenge may at last be realized in this encounter.

Definite outcome of the battle may not be known for several days.

But it is not exaggerating to say that the American fleet has won stunning if not astonishing victories in the first phases.

Many officers here hold that a real defeat for Japan at the present time will have a more vital bearing on the progress of the war even than American losses at Pearl Harbor.

Prime Minister John Curtin appeared before the Australian House of Representatives in Canberra to describe how the war had finally come in full force to the waters that lap this nation's shores.

His first announcement of major triumphs for United States (Continued on Page Three)

BOX SCORE

By International News Service
Here is the "box score" to date of the great naval battle raging in the Coral sea.

JAPANESE SHIPS SUNK: One aircraft carrier, one heavy cruiser, one light cruiser, two destroyers, four gunboats, one transport and one supply vessel.

DAMAGED: One aircraft carrier, one heavy cruiser, one light cruiser, one 9,000-ton sea-plane tender and one cargo vessel.

AMERICAN LOSSES: Officially described as "light" in initial stages.

American Aviators Smash At Chief Supply Port For Japanese Army

CHUNGKING, May 8—Hard-fighting Chinese troops routed invading Japanese columns northeast of Chefang and killed 1,000 of the enemy, a communique said today.

NEW DELHI, May 8—United States air corps fliers bombed the Japanese-held port of Rangoon, Burma, for the fifth time early today.

The dock area of Rangoon, through which the Japanese have been supplying their Burma invasion forces has suffered extensive damage from attacks by American forces under command of Maj. Gen. Lewis Brereton.

The U. S. fliers, operating heavy bombers from their base in India, started many new fires.

The raid was made extremely difficult because of thunderstorms a communique from the United States headquarters said.

The docks and other target area of Rangoon were successfully attacked, however, it was said.

Japanese fighter craft failed to attempt an interception and all the United States planes returned safely to their base.

Communique of the Chinese high command, issued in Chungking, said that Chinese defense forces in Yunnan province have beaten off repeated Japanese attacks in the vicinity of Chefang, inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy.

Fierce fighting was said to be continuing around Chefang, 50 (Continued on Page Three)

DEFENSE FILMS WILL BE SHOWN AT 8 TONIGHT

A film, which no one in the city of Circleville should fail to see, will be shown Friday in Memorial hall at 8 p. m.

This picture, "Ready on the Home Front," has gained widespread popularity in other large cities for the excellent education it gives persons on simple but effective protection against air raid damage. Dealing with such problems as proper ways to handle incendiary bombs, air raid shelters in the home and many other vital themes the picture has been made by the Ohio Bell Telephone company after complete analysis of bombings in England.

Rotarians and school pupils saw the film Thursday and a large audience is expected for the showing tonight in as much as the information is of such value that many persons will not pass up the opportunity to witness it.

Other short reels on Civilian Defense activities are planned also.

BULKELEY COMES HOME AFTER HEROIC FIGHTING

NEW YORK, May 8—Lieut. John D. Bulkeley, hero of torpedo boat exploits in the Pacific, came home from the wars today to be greeted by his wife—"the happiest woman in the world"—and see for the first time his son and namesake.

Accompanied by two other Navy torpedo men whose daring made history in Philippine waters, Lieut. Bulkeley and his companions, Lieut. Robert Kelly of New York and Ensign George Cox of Watertown, N. Y., beamed happily as they alighted from a plane at LaGuardia airport.

Henderson To Tell Solons Limit To Be Very Low

TO START MAY 15

Third Of Cars Not In Use For Work Covered

WASHINGTON, May 8—Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced today that the basic gasoline rationing unit starting May 15 will fall "somewhere between two and three gallons a week, probably nearer two."

Henderson made his statement as he prepared to testify before a House interstate subcommittee. He said flatly he would tell the members there was "no prospect of getting the unit above three."

The limitation will affect the 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia where gasoline rationing is slated to go into operation a week from today.

Henderson said the unit allowance would apply to about one-third of the nation's cars—"the cars not used for work purposes."

Henderson told newspapermen: "I don't see how I can avoid giving the committee the estimate on our basic rationing unit. The unit with the 50 percent cut is going to fall somewhere between two and three gallons a week, probably nearer two."

"I am going to say two with no prospects of getting it above three. The important thing is that this will apply to about one-third of the cars not used for work purposes."

Henderson, in speaking of the 50 percent cut, referred to the present curtailment in deliveries to filling stations.

HULL SAYS AMERICANS 'ELATED' OVER VICTORY

WASHINGTON, May 8—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today said government officials are "much elated" over the reports of America's naval victory in the Coral sea.

Hull added that officials are "eagerly seeking every fact relating to the entire battle that has been raging between the opposing fleets."

NEW COMPOUND MAY BE ANSWER TO TEETH DECAY TERMS OFFERED TO MADAGASCAR ARE DISCLOSED

CHICAGO, May 8—Discovery that hydrated potassium fluoride, a chemical compound, may be the solution to the problem of tooth decay was announced today in the current issue of the Journal of the American Dental association.

The disclosure was made by Dr. Virgil D. Cheyne, of Indianapolis, Ind., following the treatment of 27 Indianapolis children with the fluoride over a year period. Averaging 5½ years in age, the children were made available by the Indianapolis Public School Health Nursing association and were compared, after treatment, with 19 youngsters whose teeth were not treated.

Approximately 90 percent of the decay areas which developed in the teeth of the untreated group during the experiment became actively decayed, or carious, Dr. Cheyne said. Similar decay spots in the fluoride group did not become active, he added.

"This preliminary report is encouraging," commented Dr. Harold L. Hansen, secretary of the association's council on dental therapeutics. "However, it is quite evident that the treatment did not stop all decay, but, after all, there's no medicine known which will effect a complete cure of any disease."

"The fluoride treatment is not ready for general use by the dental profession, but further study should be encouraged."

Dr. Cheyne treated the 27 children in the experimental group by applying a dilute solution of the fluoride directly on their teeth, Dr. Hansen explained.

Furniture Production Hit By Latest WPB Decision

WASHINGTON, May 8—Government soon will freeze stocks of all construction lumber in the nation, it was learned today as the WPB disclosed that the furniture industry is rapidly being converted to make "large numbers" of wooden planes, gliders and other munition products.

Production of most everyday furniture items will cease completely by next year, when the industry will be hitting a billion-dollar-a-year war stride, it was forecast.

Meanwhile, war agencies are becoming alarmed over threatened shortages of so-called softwood construction lumber needed for cantonments, airfields, bases and ships. WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson already has appealed to logging and sawmill operators and workers to bring production of construction lumber to a maximum.

Nelson said that he requested "immediate action," because, "the situation is so critical."

Bill To Take Cars Used In Traffic Violations Also Being Assailed

WASHINGTON, May 8—Sharp opposition rose in Congress today to proposals by high officials that legislation be enacted granting authority to requisition private automobiles for war purposes.

A proposed meeting of the Senate military affairs committee tomorrow to act on the requisition bill by Sen. Downey (D) Cal., may be postponed, Sen. Reynolds (D) N. C., committee chairman, said.

"It seems like a ridiculous proposal to me," exclaimed Sen. Herring (D) Iowa. "Of course, if the time comes when the government needs our private automobiles, they will either be given or taken. I believe that the people would give up their cars if they thought it would help win the war."

Another senator, who declined to be quoted, said that "if the (Continued on Page Three)

TOTAL SIGN UP FOR WAR CARDS 24,120 LOCALLY

McDowell Estimates 3,000 Have Failed To Appear For Registration

CANNING RULING MADE

Five Pounds Per Person In Family May Be Obtained For Purpose

During the four day sugar registration which closed Thursday, 24,120 Pickaway county persons filed applications for war ration books with 22,147 receiving them.

In the last day of the program the number of registrations unexpectedly dropped to 4,789 persons.

There were approximately 3,000 persons in the county who did not enter the program here but George McDowell, county coordinator, explained that this could be largely caused by the drop in local population due to the centralization of defense industries in larger cities and the draft.

Mr. McDowell also stated that the issue of sugar for canning purposes has been clearly put by the government in this way: five pounds of sugar will be allowed for each person in a family for one season's canning.

Results of the last day's sign-up were as follows:

Darby township, 225 applications with issuance of 208 books; Deer Creek township, 279 and 270;

Jackson township, 159 and 143; Monroe township, 161 and 155; Perry township, 113 and 105; Pickaway township, 161 and 157; Salt Creek township, 147 and 115; Scioto township, 236 and 214; Walnut township, 241 and 204; Washington township, 180 and 168;

Ashville, 227 and 191; New Holland, 174 and 152; Circleville, 1,915 and 1,771; Duval, 112 and 103; South Bloomfield, 45 and 38; Madison township, 167 and 157; Muhlenberg township, 109 and 107;

Wayne township, 134 and 127; Tartion, four and four.

COLUMBUS, May 8.—For approximately 3,000,000 Ohioans who haven't been registered for sugar stamp books, today is the final deadline, said state sugar rationing administrator Harry J. Patterson.

He explained that this large group apparently did not realize they were expected to register, or else more householders had boarded sugar than had been expected and did not wish to report the fact.

At that same time, he said federal agents throughout the state are checking reported violations of rationing regulations both by consumers and tradesmen, several reports having been made in the Cleveland area.

For consumers who do not register this week, the next sugar registration will take place on or

Where Are Your Plates?

If you are wondering where your plates are that once reposed in the garage, do not worry about them any longer. They are going for a good cause. "Slap the Japs" was the slogan for the managers of the Italy Dairy company when they were asked to collect license plates for national defense. For every

Fine Program Prepared For Concert Next Week

An interesting program has been arranged by Robert G. Colville, chairman, for the benefit concert to be held May 14 at 8 p. m. on the high school athletic field. At the concert, being given to raise funds for local Civilian Defense work, the high school band will play a series of numbers, introducing two new patriotic songs.

Also planned for the evening of entertainment is a demonstration by a local first aid class, training as a part of the defense program.

The girls' sextet will complete the schedule. Improvements are being made at the school athletic field in the form of a repainting job on the bleachers.

Proceeds from the project will go into the local fund to finance Civilian Defense activities.

A sound system owned by Paul Murray of Ashville has been donated for the evening's festivities.

government has to have automobiles the people will give them, so I don't see any need to legislate now."

The bill by Reynolds for seizure of automobiles whose drivers violate a proposed national speed law of 40 miles an hour was vigorously assailed by Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile association.

Reynolds, who had declared that the rubber situation is far more critical than has been generally known, denied however, that he proposed to confiscate cars.

"The word confiscation has been over-emphasized," he said. "I am personally opposed to any taking of private property by the government if needs can be met otherwise."

Reynolds said that while there is no immediate prospect of confiscation of either cars or tires, "if it should become necessary as a war measure it would be through orderly and lawful procedure."

Drastic steps can be avoided, he said, if car owners will cooperate in conserving transportation.

BRITISH VILLAGE AWAITS QUINTS; FOLK IN DITHER

By KATHLEEN HARRIMAN

ABINGDON, England, May 8—An air of excited anticipation enveloped the Warren hospital in this Berkshire town today as attaches completed final preparations for the expected arrival of the Woodley quintuplets.

Matron Holda Dewhurst tip-toed into the special room reserved for the "quints" and pinned five tiny, numbered British flags on a large cot which has been rebuilt especially for the big event.

The revamped cot was necessitated by the fact that the hospital did not have four spare cots. A side was taken out of a large cot and it was rebuilt to allow it to accommodate all five of the babies 28-year-old Mrs. Emily Woodley is expected to have.

Everything appeared to be in readiness today, right down to the special cotton and wool to be used for wrapping the infants. Specially prepared milk also is ready.

Dr. J. H. Fisher, the 31-year-old physician who has been studying Dr. Alan Roy Dufour's history of the Dionne quintuplets for several weeks, is maintaining a continuous vigil at the hospital. He assured his two assisting doctors and four special nurses today that "everything is going well."

Anything short of quintuplets will be a severe blow to everyone in Berkshire, but it would land especially hard on the residents of Culham, the tiny village the Woodleys call home.

The race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong.—Ecclesiastes 9:11.

Four members of the AAA office were in Wilmington all day Thursday to attend a district conference of farm leaders. John G. Boggs, Wilbur Brinkers, Dewey Downs and Mrs. Fannie Brooks attended the confab at which marketing quotas for 1942, wheat storage and commodity loans were discussed.

Miss Margaret H. Foster, Mount Sterling, was among pupils at Ohio State university who recently received honors for their work in the last semester.

Sherman Binkley, East Mound street, who underwent a major operation recently in Doctors' hospital, Columbus, was removed home Friday in the Mader invalid car.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dixon of East Main street are parents of a son born in Berger hospital Friday.

Grant Dorland of New York, who became ill when driving through Circleville on his way home from the Kentucky Derby, was taken to White Cross hospital, Columbus, Thursday for additional treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Woolever announce the birth of a daughter April 30 at the home of Mr. Woolever's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Turney G. Woolever, of Muhlenberg township, near Darbyville.

Mr. and Mrs. David Mowery announce the birth of a baby girl Monday, May 4, in a Dayton hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Mowery of Dayton, formerly of Wooster, are widely known in Circleville where they visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Robinson, South Pickaway street.

First Aid Defense class which meets tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the council chamber of city hall will attend in a body the showing of the Defense film at Memorial hall at 8 p. m. Mrs. W. W. Robinson, class leader, will complete the final examination of the class after the film is shown.

U. S., JAP SHIPS IN BIG BATTLE

warships was greeted with delirious enthusiasm. But the House lapsed into sombre silence when he dealt with the threat that still exists.

"The war has reached a stage where happenings of great magnitude are clearly at hand," he said.

"The Australian government is not thinking of acting or working in a defensive frame of mind, but may have to strike first in defense and then offense."

No Information Received
"I have no information as to how the engagement is developing at this moment."

"Nobody can tell what the result of the engagement may be."

"If we do not have from the battle the advantages we hope, all that concerns us is a sterner ordeal and a greater responsibility."

"This battle will not decide the war. It will determine the immediate objects to be pursued by our common enemy."

"I ask the people of Australia, having regard to the course implicit in this engagement, to take a sober and realistic aspect of their duty towards the nation. As I speak, those engaged in this battle are devoting themselves to the cause and are fighting in what may be their last battle."

Australian newspapers were enthusiastic over the first reported American victories.

"There is grand news in the naval blows at the Japanese in their pirate nests in the Pacific," the Sydney Sun said.

"More uplifting than the loss of eight Japanese warships (this was the figure first announced in Washington) is the feeling that this is the first heavy blow of a great and growing offensive that will drive the enemy from the sea."

The known score taken by United States forces included:

SUNK: One aircraft carrier, one heavy cruiser, one light cruiser, two destroyers, four gunboats, one transport, and one supply vessel.

DAMAGED: One aircraft carrier, one heavy cruiser, one light cruiser, one 9,000-ton seaplane tender and one cargo vessel.

The damaged aircraft carrier was so badly damaged that it is believed to be a total loss. The damaged cruiser also was battered severely.

The light cruiser, two destroyers, four gunboats and the supply vessel were sent to the bottom on Monday. The date of the subsequent action which sunk the carrier and heavy cruiser and severely damaged the other Japanese vessels was not disclosed in the communiqué.

(Reuters (British) news agency reported receipt of a broadcast from Tokyo which quoted the press section of the Japanese navy office as claiming the Japanese had scored "brilliant achievements in the Coral sea, east of Australia, on an Anglo-American combined fleet." The broadcast asserted details would be announced later in the day.)

The communiqué issued yesterday in Washington concerning Monday's United Nations naval victories against the Japanese represented only the beginning of the naval battle, it was pointed out here.

Running Fight Raging

Reports reaching Gen. MacArthur's headquarters here indicated that the engagement had developed into a running sea battle, with the United Nations forces driving in against the Japanese with concerted sharp attacks backed up by strong air support.

Reliable sources pointed out that any enemy moves southward through the area of the battle would render the Japanese highly vulnerable to air and sea attacks because of the element of surprise which the United Nations can employ to their advantage by striking out from many available bases.

Meanwhile, the United Nations cause continued on the upgrade in every major front except Burma and reports from that country were not without their brighter side.

U. S. Army Air Corps bombers based in India returned to Burma to pound away at the docks of Japanese-held Rangoon for the fifth time and considerable damage was known to have resulted.

In Madagascar, the French were reported to be continuing some resistance in scattered sectors following the loss of the island's main naval base of Diego Suarez at Antsirane, but it was generally agreed that complete British occupation would be only a matter of time.

The London Daily Sketch said that the Vichy government, anticipating an American move against the Caribbean island of Martinique similar to that of the British in Madagascar were planning to remove gold reserves valued at a billion dollars from that Western Hemisphere possession.

In Europe, the Royal Air Force kept up its ceaseless hammering at industrial and military targets in Germany and the occupied countries and the Luftwaffe attempted a light raid on an English south coast town. London had its first air raid alert in a considerable period of time, but no bombs were reported dropped.

Reds Hold Upper Hand

Russian armies continued to hold the initiative on the eastern European front, scoring new gains below Leningrad and in the vicinity of the vital Arctic port of Murmansk.

In the Murmansk area, the Red army was reported to have driven a wedge extending from eight to 11 miles into Finnish-German lines and this advance was confirmed by the Berlin radio.

Chungking reported that Chinese forces were beating off a Japanese drive near Chefang, 30 miles above the Burma-China border, but that fierce fighting was miles above the Burmese border, with the Japanese launching persistent attacks in an effort to advance northeastward along the Burma road.

continuing in that sector. A Chinese military spokesman said the Japanese position in the Yunnan province was an unstable one and that a counter-attack would be launched at the earliest possible moment.

Here's Japanese Victory Claim

This dispatch was sent from an enemy country, whose motive in releasing news is likely to be propaganda. Axis claims should be credited only when confirmed by American or Allied sources.

TOKYO, May 8—(By Official Japanese Wire)—The Imperial Japanese high command today issued a communiqué regarding the naval battle in the Pacific which said:

"Imperial navy units operating in the New Guinea area discovered and caught a powerful Anglo-American combined fleet May 6 in the Coral sea (northwest of Australia)."

"Attacking them on the seventh they instantly sank a United States battleship of the California type, seriously crippled a British 'eye' class cruiser of the Canberra type and heavily damaged a British battleship of the Warspite type."

"They sank today a United States aircraft carrier of the Saratoga type and another of the Yorktown type."

"Attacks still are being continued."

"The sea battle will be called the 'Sea Battle of the Coral Sea.'"

(EDITOR'S NOTE: No confirmation of the Japanese claims has been given from United Nations headquarters in Australia or from either Washington or London.)

LONDON—The port of Akyab

in western Burma may now be in Japanese hands but nothing is known in London concerning Japanese claims that their forces had crossed the frontier of India west of Paletwa and the Kaladan river, a British military authority said today.

NEW DELHI—A call for formation of a unified, "offensive"

fighting force to defend India against Japanese invasion had been sounded today by Lord Linlithgow, the British viceroy.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—The

Swedish liner Drottningholm today was enroute to Lisbon carrying 948 axis diplomats, newspapermen and members of their families who will be exchanged for a group of Americans and Latin-Americans who were interned in Europe after outbreak of war. The big white liner, with the word "Diplomat" painted in huge letters on her sides sailed last night with the cargo of German, Italian, Romanian and Hungarian nationals.

LONDON—A violent explosion in the Belgian city of Courtrai was reported today by the London Daily Mail, which quoted the Brussels radio. No details were available immediately on the blast, the broadcast said. Courtrai is located in eastern Belgium about 40 miles east of Brussels.

LONDON—Plans are under way in Jerusalem for "total mobilization" of Jewish men and women of Palestine for army service and defense and war work, the London Daily Telegraph said today. Leading Jewish organizations are now discussing details of the plan in Jerusalem, the dispatch said.

forces consolidated their positions in the Diego Suarez harbor while officers conferred with the French authorities over final terms of the surrender of Antsirane.

Reports from Vichy said fighting was continuing in other parts of the thousand-mile-long island, but no confirmation of any organized resistance was issued in London.

In a Madrid dispatch, the London Daily Mail quoted Vichy reports saying that huge reinforcements of British troops from South Africa and United States Army units, with masses of artillery and planes, were pouring into Diego Suarez to make it impregnable to Japanese attack, but the reports were not confirmed by any reliable source.

OPEN LETTERS

TO MOTHER

ALL: Bring flowers, boys and girls, and get the Sunday dinner. Lift high your glasses of milk and give a rousing toast—for Sunday is Mother's Day, children, and Mother is Queen of the May!
How about realizing, all of a sudden, that
Mother is good to you all the year around?
That when she's cross, she's tired, because she's been doing things for you: when she denies you things you want, it's because she thinks it's better for you to do or have something else? That she doesn't want you to grow up soft and selfish but strong and good? When you are thinking about heroes, think once in a while about
Mother. She's apt to be pretty heroic, too.
She didn't whine when Brother went to war, did she? Not Mother. She smiled
and said "We're all proud of you, Son!"
You don't know what she told her pillow
in the night, but you know she stood right up in the daytime. Do you want to make Mother happy? Do what she thinks is best right through the year, without too much argument and without any grumbling.
That's a real gift.

CIRCUITEER.

TO SUGAR REGISTRARS

FOLK: I am merely passing along an expression of appreciation voiced concerning the role numerous persons in private life have played in the consumer sugar rationing registration. Without assistance of many persons outside public schools, it is difficult to say just what complications might have developed in the registration of many thousands of persons during the last week. School teachers were assigned the task of conducting the registration, and they went about their duties in an efficient manner, but the swarm of housewives and others who moved into the various school buildings
for registration was almost too much for the faculties to handle. Thus outside aid was solicited, and many persons came to the assistance of the educators. The entire registration was well handled, despite difficulties that existed the first day.
There are still some things to iron out. For instance, a family refused war rationing

books because it had too much sugar
should not see how fast it can use the supply on hand. It must abide by the government's limitation of one-half pound of sugar each week no matter how much it might have on hand. If it should use up 25 pounds in a couple of weeks it will find itself without a supply of sugar for a long while before it will be eligible for rationing cards. Store keepers are warned also that they must watch carefully which rationing coupons they remove from their patrons' books. They must account for all their sugar before wholesalers can provide them additional supplies.

CIRCUITEER.

TO OFFICIALS

AUTHORITIES: Acute shortage of rubber has presented a problem, and a difficult one. Every one feels sorry for the fellow who suffered loss of all four tires and wheels on his car parked beside
his home, and all of us hope that the law
catches up with persons who stole the property. Ohio's governor is calling on defense councils throughout the state to do something about tire conservation. He wants councils in all communities to urge
a three point program for the state; travel
less; drive slower, and swap rides. Voluntary observance of these recommendations would serve as an alternative to summoning a special session of the legislature as has been done in many states to invoke a legal 40-mile limit backed by severe penalties. Motorists are being informed of the rubber shortage in numerous ways, they are warned against driving faster than 40 miles an hour outside of municipalities and to observe rigidly municipal speed laws and traffic regulations,
to organize 'riding clubs' thus enabling motorists to save tires by cooperatively alternating use of cars, to discourage unnecessary automobile travel, and to employ
bus and rail facilities whenever possible.
The smart young fellow who just loves to speed it up between traffic lights and then slam on his brakes at the next corner is being eliminated. You don't hear that on the street so much any more, and one
having nerve enough to try finds himself
the center of all eyes.

CIRCUITEER.

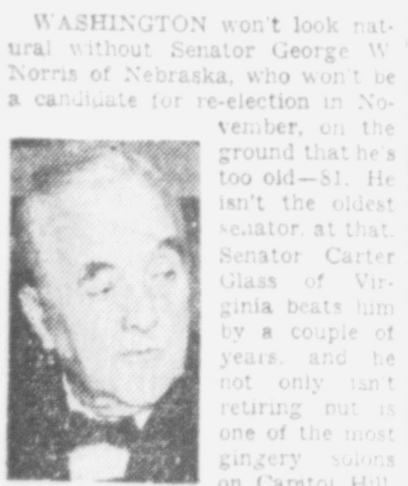

TO WEATHERMAN

MISTER: It was mighty nice of you to come through with a couple of splendid rains during the last week. Pickaway county depends on its farm produce for its living, its canning factories cannot operate without peas, corn and other products that depend on rain. You held off for a long while before you decided to open the gates and permit a little moisture to dampen things. The rains were appreciated, and I hope that you will be able to give us
more rain as it is needed. Uncle Sam's armed forces need plenty of supplies this Summer, Fall and Winter, and agricultur-
alists are looking to Pickaway county to do a lot of producing. You can do your part,
also, to make the ax fall on the axis.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

Senator Norris

WASHINGTON won't look natural without Senator George W.
Norris of Nebraska, who won't be a candidate for re-election in November, on the ground that he's too old—81. He isn't the oldest senator at that. Senator Carter Glass of Virginia beats him by a couple of years, and he not only isn't retiring but is one of the most gingery seniors on Capitol Hill.

Senator Norris, though, says he feels old.
In point of service Senator Lin-don D. Smith of South Dakota is the upper congressional chamber's senior member, with three more years in his present seat than Senator Norris, who began in 1913,
has occupied his Senator Smith's term isn't expiring now, however.

The term of Senator Charles L.
McNary of Oregon, Republican leader on the senate floor, is expiring, though, and he's after another one, despite the fact that he's fifth on the list of seniorities
at the end of the Capitol building.

bloom in his home state. Next following Senator Capper is Senator Glass, already referred to.
Thirty-two senators come up at a clatter, but those seven are the veterans.
No, Senator Norris isn't quite
the dean of the group in the upper legislative branch. Nevertheless,
he's served longer in congress than any other individual, for he began with several years in the house of representatives—all told 39 years.
He started as a Republican but he always was an exceedingly liberal one. When the Republican Progressives developed an organization, he was a charter member of their group. Gradually he became transformed without more than a nominal Republican qualification, and the last time he was elected it was as an out-and-out Independent.

Yes, indeed, he'll be nonpartisan-
ly mixed, as a personality.
Plenty of his associates, some of whom didn't endorse all his advanced ideas, would have dis-
sented from him if he could,
reckoning that he'll be a net loss,
regardless of their disagreements with him on certain issues. They hate to see him go back to Mc-Cook, Neb., to die, but his mind
seems to be made up.
On rather different grounds, Representative George Holden Tinkham's announcement of his refusal to be a candidate again for a seat
at the other end of the Capitol,
from his Massachusetts district,
has attracted a good bit of attention.

Representative Tinkham is picturesque. With his departure congressional color will fade,

No More Whiskers
His Republican political uter-ances have been good listening to,
even by lawmakers who dissented
from 'em. But, aside from that,
for at least a generation he's sporting the only full set of whiskers in the house. There are few whiskers at all today, but those who still wear a modicum of 'em
keep 'em under strict control. Representative Tinkham's run absolutely wild. And, between congressional sessions, it was George's regular custom to visit the African wilds, and, personally, shoot lions,
tigers and elephants, bringing stuffed fragments of their remains back for the Smithsonian and similar institutions. He may do the same thing in retirement, but
it won't have the same pep.
He isn't so very old—a mere 72
—but the last census made a mere change in the boundaries of his congressional district and he doesn't like 'em.

One chap who caused a little surprise by proclaiming his re-election candidacy is Representative Hamilton Fish of New York.
Ham Fish's name, it's hardly needful to remark, has been mentioned copiously in connection with the subversive activities one or two of his subordinates are said to have participated in since the beginning of the present war. Ham hasn't been accused of having had his own hand in 'em, but it surely has been implied that he was careless in not spotting 'em, if they were slumbering, as charged before various investigators and grand juries,
including an indictment or so.

Well, he says he's going to run again. If he's re-elected, it'll be a vindication for him, but it scarcely
was expected he'd take the chance.

DIET AND HEALTH

Study of Causes of Dizziness Gives Sufferers New Hope

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MENIERE'S disease is a severe form of dizziness or vertigo. Many people write to me about it every week. I am glad, therefore, to announce some good news in a discussion of the subject by Dr. Miles Atkinson of New York. Dr. Atkinson says, very sensibly in my opinion, that the doctors have always been looking for a single cause which suits all cases, when

in his experience he has found that Meniere's disease has several causes, two of them being quite definite.

Akin to Allergy
One class of cases is undoubtedly caused by something akin to the state of allergy. The attacks are paroxysmal. Enough cases have now accumulated where the patients have been proved to be sensitive to something such as milk
or wheat to allow us to say quite definitely that allergy is the essential factor in these cases.

A test which has proved valuable in recognizing this group of cases is the histamine skin test.
This has to be applied by a doctor, but the principles of it are simple enough.

There is a great deal of evidence to show that with attacks of allergy, such as hay fever, asthma or hives, there is released in the body
a substance known as histamine.
It is therefore possible to test a patient with Meniere's disease to see whether or not he is sensitive to histamine.

A small amount of histamine is injected into the skin and in many instances produces not only a wheal
at the local site of injection,
but also induces an attack of vertigo. When this has been proved to be true of any patient, he is then put on an elimination diet to see what food substances he is sensitive to. This has proved of great value in treating the allergic group of cases.

Construction of Arteries
There is another larger group of patients with Meniere's disease in which the attacks of vertigo are probably due to constriction of the arteries in the internal ear—in the organ of equilibrium. This second group of patients are likely to be elderly people, at least over 60

years old, and constitute a good deal larger group than the allergic
group.

There is no reason why the arteries in the organ of equilibrium
should not undergo constriction
just as much as the arteries of the heart undergo constriction to produce angina pectoris in the same age group of patients. It has been found that treatment directed toward relieving spasm of the arteries will relieve attacks of Meniere's disease, such as the use of amyl nitrite, nitroglycerine and other dilating agents.

More Cheerful View
These investigations give a much more cheerful view to the outlook for the patient with Meniere's disease than has previously been held. Many surgeons have bluntly expressed the view that the only thing to do with Meniere's
disease is to perform an operation
and cut the auditory nerve, which,
although it relieves the attacks of
vertigo, leaves the patient deaf.

There are, of course, some cases
of Meniere's disease which become so severe and continuous as to make this prospect acceptable, but most of them are milder and it is to be hoped that the application
of these ideas of groups caused by allergy or vaso-constriction will lead to relief without the employment of such drastic means.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
H. S.:—What causes cracking of toes, knees and sometimes the jaw when eating? Could this be from a lack of vitamins?
Answer: Some people are subject to these easily dislocated and rough joints. It does not appear to mean anything serious and is certainly not due to a lack of vitamins.

SYNOPSIS

Three young airline hostesses,
TIBBY LANE, sweet and natural;
STEENA WINTERS, beautiful and sophisticated, and
MARG BAKER, plain, sturdy and direct, share an apartment together in New York where they are based. A friend of Tibby's,
TOMMY DARE, is spending his first
year out of medical school at a clinic
in Brooklyn.
Steena sets her cap for WAYNE COURTRIGHT, wealthy official of the airline.

YESTERDAY: Just as Steena reveals
to Tommy that Courtright is teaching her to fly, the phone rings.
Steena and Tibby both reach for it.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

WHEN THE phone finally rang,
after that interminable period of waiting, and both girls reached for
it, it was Tibby who got there first.
Steena had reached out an arm, but
had not gotten up.

Tibby said, "Yes?" breathlessly,
her heart pounding in her ears so
that she wondered if she would be able to hear, for now that the moment had come, maybe it WOULD be worse than that waiting. "Yes, this is Tibby." And, at the other end of the wire, as she had known
it would be, was Wayne. His voice calm, steady.

"We just got word," he told her.
"Sorry I could not call sooner, but
we wanted to keep all wires open.
The plane is severely damaged.
Captain Mercer managed to set it right down on a nice ice floe that held up until the rescue ships came.
All passengers and all members of the crew are safe."

All safe... the relief this brought was so enormous that it left Tibby weak. That meant that Marg was all right, that she would say her funny, pat things again.
"That roommate of yours," there was an amused chuckle over the wire, "it seems she's quite a heroine! But you'll read all about it in the morning papers. Feel better now?" There was a new note in the assured voice, a note almost of tenderness.

"Oh, yes—much better!" Tibby
breathed, easily, effortlessly once more. "Thank you so much for calling. It was so good of you to remember, to let me know."
"Did you think I could forget?"
There was no doubt as to the tenderness in his tone now. "You should know better than that, my dear."

"I didn't think you would," Tibby
protested, the ever-ready color mounting her cheeks. Of course he had not meant anything in calling her that, but she was glad just the same that Steena—and Tommy—could hear only what was said at this end of the line. "I knew how busy you'd be, and it's so late—"

"No matter how busy or how late," his voice was as firm now as it had been gentle, "I don't forget a promise made. In fact, it seems—lately—that I don't forget you.
You are very much on my mind,
young lady, ALL of the time."

If Tibby had been glad before

that the other side of this conversation was inaudible, except to her ears, now she was doubly relieved.
There was nothing she could say
in reply, although she knew she ought to manage something. Of course Courtright did not mean it
—not in the way it had sounded,
so gravely earnest in spite of a certain light banter. It was just that he, too, was relieved, this awful waiting over.

He said, "Did you hear me? I meant what I just said—though perhaps this is hardly the time to say it. Tibby, are you there—why don't you say something?"

"I... yes, I'm here," Tibby returned. Maybe Steena and Tommy could hear—the silence in the room
behind her gave evidence that they were both listening intently. "It—
it is late," although that was not the reason she did not want him
to say what he had, "so thank you again—and good night."

She put the receiver down,
knowing that now her cheeks were burning. How could she face Tommy and Steena without betraying that something was wrong? Nothing was, really—Marg was safe—
that was the important thing. Remembering that—and putting all
the rest aside for the time being—
she could face them. Besides, no doubt she was laying undue importance on the other things that had been said. She was over-wrought,
her nerves taut, her relief still almost too great after the long anxiety.

"Everything's all right," she told Tommy and Steena. "The ship was severely damaged. All passengers and the crew rescued. And Marg—so Mr. Courtright said—proved herself quite a heroine. Isn't that wonderful!" Her bright eyes and high color could be accounted for
by this marvelous piece of news.

"Very wonderful," Steena's tone
was a bit dry, her green eyes slightly narrowed, although she added,
more warmly, "I'm really glad
about Marg, even if I can't imagine her as a heroine. But tell me," her eyes rested on Tibby's flushed young face, "is that ALL Wayne
had to say? Didn't he ask for me?"

"I don't suppose he knew you were home," Tibby began.
"At this hour?" Steena's glance
went to the clock that now marked
the time at a quarter past one.
"Even posing for publicity does not last that long, no matter how many retakes there have to be."

"Evidently your boy friend—and I gather he is a special friend of yours, Steena"—Tommy made the interruption this time—"wanted to talk to Tibby. He must have guessed I'd still be here, as I'd hardly leave Tibby alone until she got more news, but he didn't ask for me, either. Though he did take quite awhile—as you pointed out—to deliver his brief message." Tommy's tone was mocking, but he had observed Tibby's flushed face and
the brightness of her eyes, too.

This was a good way, besides, to pay Tibby back for not telling him

about those flying lessons. She knew darned well he would not like
it, her learning to fly, which was worse than this hostess angle, although, apparently, what he liked
or didn't, made no impression upon her, but rather served an opposite purpose.

In this he was right, as it was because he would not have liked it that Tibby had not told him about the lessons. She guessed now that her not telling had something to do with his taking sides, as it were,
with Steena, but Tommy had proved anything but helpful all evening. And after Tibby had given him such a royal welcome, too.

She said coolly, "You needn't have stayed. And since the message has been delivered—which was
what we all were waiting for, and which turned out, fortunately, to be good news, instead of bad, as it so easily might have been, I expect you'd better go." Maybe that was putting it a bit bluntly, but Tibby felt it was deserved. They all should be filled with gratitude for Marg's safety instead of being suspicious and mocking and evasive.

"Oh, I had no intention of keeping you girls up any later, or earlier," Tommy still used his mocking tone, but he got up so quickly it was evident he employed
it now to cover his own feelings
rather than to try to stir up Tibby's. He guessed he knew when he had been practically insulted. "Of course I'm glad about Marg. I'm also glad to have it brought home
to you that it might have been serious. That should also point out how ridiculous it is for a girl—who has no real reason, as Steena observed—to take up flying."

Tibby's eyes were dangerously
bright now, her color crimson.
"Thank you for all the advice." Her voice was not cool; it contained
ice. "When I need some more I'll remember to call on you. Good night, Tommy."

"You needn't rush off," Steena
protested, gathering her full skirt
to rise to accompany Tommy to the door, since Tibby had stalked out of the room. "I don't have to get up in the morning."

"But I do," Tommy said, somewhat grimly.
"I think it's nice to know a man who is willing to give advice." Steena smiled up at him from under long lashes. "Women need that masculine shoulder to lean on.
Maybe I'll ask for yours sometime
should I find I need one."

"It's yours for the asking," Tommy did not look quite so grim, although he knew she was only endeavoring to make up for Tibby.
"A man often needs a woman's advice, too, so maybe we can strike a bargain."

"It IS a bargain," Steena assured
him. She gave him a smile this time to show him how much she meant
it. For they might be able to help
one another some day in a way
neither could foresee.

Dorothy Harris Becomes Mrs. Morris J. Stilwell

Vows Exchanged
On May 2 In Lebanon, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harris, West Main street, formerly of Newark, announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy, to Corporal Morris John Stilwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Stilwell of Lima. The ceremony was solemnized Saturday, May 2, at 12:30 p. m. in Lebanon, Pa.

The Rev. John T. Faulk officiated at the service in the Baptist church, masses of gladioli and iris against a background of greenery forming an appropriate setting for the quiet wedding.

Music was presented by Lieut. Myron Fuller, soloist, accompanied by Corporal Eugene Lawrence.

For her wedding, the bride wore a smart gown of aqua trimmed in gold and used matching accessories. Her only jewelry was a gold bracelet, the gift of the bridegroom. White gardenias formed her corsage.

Mrs. Harris attended her daughter as matron of honor. Private Opha Creager served as best man. A gown of navy blue, redingote style, was worn by Mrs. Harris and her corsage was of Tallman roses.

Captain and Mrs. Edwin L. Montgomery, Lieut. Myron Fuller, and Corporal Eugene Lawrence, Indiantown Gap, Pa., were guests at the service in addition to Mrs. Eugene Harris of Newark, sister-in-law of the bride. Several friends of the bridegroom from the 136th F. A., Indiantown Gap, attended the wedding.

An informal reception was held at the Welmer Hotel, Lebanon, following the ceremony.

The bride is inspector for the State Board of Cosmetology and is making her home with her parents in Circleville for the duration.

Corporal Stilwell is stationed at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, Indiantown Gap, Pa.

Mrs. Harris and daughter visited Captain and Mrs. Montgomery preceding the wedding.

Senior Girl Reserves
Senior Girl Reserves of Circleville high school entertained at the annual Mother's Day banquet Thursday the outstanding social affair being held at Hanley's tea room. Sixty-six were present for the delightful evening.

Decorations of candles were on each table, the officers table having a centerpiece of lovely flowers. Each mother found a petunia in a decorated pot as a favor at her place.

The feature of the evening was the presenting of achievement awards of Girl Reserve necklaces by Miss Elma Rains, club advisor. Girls honored were Miss Florence and Miss Dorothy Dresbach, Miss Julia Jane Work, Miss Jeanne Miller and Miss Marjorie Trimmer. Miss Dorothy Cook, outgoing president, was presented a past president's pin, and the club members gave Miss Rains a lovely gift of appreciation.

The brief program opened with a prayer by Miss Patty Owens; Welcome to the Mothers, Miss Cook; response, Mrs. Ray Cook, her mother; vocal solo, "Mother," Miss Marlene Hennessy; piano solo, "Every day is 'Mother's Day' to Mother," Miss Betty Moeller.

Group singing of "Follow the Glean" and the "Star-Spangled Banner" concluded the pleasant evening.

Otterbein Guild
The annual Mother and Daughter banquet sponsored by the Otterbein Guild of the United Brethren church was held Thursday in the community house with 65 mothers and daughters present for the occasion. "Mothers of Many Lands" was the general theme of the program.

Dinner was served at tables decorated to represent countries in which the U. B. church has missions. The decorations consisted of balloons that showed maps of the world when inflated. Favors were tiny pennants with the names of the various countries printed on them. Tall yellow tapers completed the attractive table arrangements.

Miss Catherine Turner, president of the guild, welcomed the mothers and gave a toast to "Motherhood."

Mrs. John Kerns, president of the missionary society, responded. Scripture reading by Mrs. J. R. Downs was followed by prayer by Miss Rhea Jean Mason.

The excellent program opened with a vocal solo, "God's Children Live in Many Lands," Miss Evelyn Pearce; the 23rd Psalm as translated by an American Indian, by Miss Lucille Kirkwood; the Lord's Prayer, as translated by a Syrian, by Miss Isabelle Noggle; short talks on "Mothers Around the World," by guild girls, each dressed as a native of the country which she represented. Entertainment for young and old will be provided when the public party of the season at the Pickaway Country club is held Wednesday, May 13. The affair is arranged for the public as well as club members.

The house committee, with Mrs. Charles G. Shulze as chairman, met Thursday at the club house and completed delightful plans for the party. Dinner will be served buffet style at 6:30 p. m. Dancing in the Old Barn will furnish amusement for the younger guests during the evening with outdoor games of various kinds to be enjoyed preceding the dinner.

Bridge games and other forms of entertainment are planned for the older group.

This will be the first public party at the club house since its extensive remodeling and decoration.

In addition to Mrs. Shulze, the house committee is comprised of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Groom, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Smith Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Grant, Dr. and Mrs. David Goldschmidt and Mrs. Frank J. Bennett.

Tuxis Club
Thirty-five members attended the Thursday meeting of the Tuxis club in the social room of the Presbyterian church, Miss Lois Madison conducting the opening business meeting. The hour was devoted to discussion of plans for the Youth League rally of the Columbus Presbytery which will be in the Circleville church May 17.

"The nation depends on Homes" was the topic discussed under the leadership of the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey.

After a short period of games, eats were served by Miss Madison, Miss Eleanor Weaver, Charles Will and Dudley Smallwood.

Recent extensive tests by an independent testing laboratory showed that a group of fresh vegetables cooked the ordinary way lost an average of 83.7% of all the vitamins they contained. The same foods with vitaminized electric cooking lost only 9% of their vitamins. Many foods lost more than two-thirds of some vitamins!

Much of this loss can be prevented if you follow these simple rules: (1) Use little or no water, (2) Start fast—cook quickly, (3) Avoid violent boiling, (4) Use covered utensils—Don't stir, (5) Bake vegetables in their skins.

The clean, even heat of an Electric Range makes it easy to cook the vitamin saving way.

In Memoriam

In Loving Remembrance of my Dear Mother, Mrs. Beulah Crosby Dittz, Who Passed Away March 9, 1941.

Mother's trials and tribulations on earth have been success. Her spirit and soul are forever at peace. Of ideas about mother upon which we are so fond. The foremost is one that her heart was pure gold.

My memories of mother are pure joys of the past. And memories of her will remain to the last. Her kind deeds and actions were noble and grand. Human burdens were lightened by her helping hand.

Real hidden virtues and a lot of just fame. Are things that belong to mother's good name. A record in memory that will last to the end. Will be memories of mother, that true, faithful friend.

Mother was my joy and pride. I loved her all my life. For soon she slept and died, to greet her home up in the skies. All is dark within my dwelling. Lonely is my heart today. For mother, the one I loved so dearly, has forever passed away.

Daughter—
Mrs. Dorothy Craig Sheridan, Wyoming.

Three Question Marks In Big Preakness Test

By JACK MAHON

NEW YORK, May 8 — They've called it the Preakness for years but this year's running of old Maryland's most famous turf feature could more properly be labeled "the race of the three question marks."

Forget about that favored Greentree entry of Shut Out, Kentucky Derby winner, and his stable-mate Devil Diver, for a moment and consider a trio of problem children who may make both of them and eight or ten other possible starters nothing more than agate names in the "also rans."

We're speaking of Alsab, Colchis and Sun Again. If anyone other than the Greentree entry winds up favorite it's liable to be Alsab, the little guy who electrified last week's crowd at Churchill Downs by coming out of the clouds with a stretch drive that brought him second money in the Blue Grass classic.

His trainer, Sarge Swenke, insists despite the son of Good Goods—Winds Chant's scrawny appearance he is a colt, which needs plenty of racing to reach peak form and that "he'll win 'em all from here in."

That may sound all right to the legion of Alsab rooters but there are many others who insist Alsab shot all he had into the Derby and won't be the same again until he has had a long-needed rest.

Trainer Ben Jones ran him in the Derby trial in which he was beaten a neck by Valinda Orphan, which gave Shut Out a whale of a race all the way. Those who saw the trial are unanimous in the opinion Sun Again was the better of the two and could have won if he had been extended.

Trainer Benjamin Jones insisted his colt was still a week off in training, did not start him in the Derby and then let out a moan that could be heard in far-away Calumet farm when he saw Shut Out's time of 2:04 2-5 posted on the infield board at the downs.

Ben insists Sun Again did not ship well from Kentucky to Pimlico but the son of Sun Teddy-Hug Again has worked well and is now classed a "probable starter" in the 52nd running of the Preakness, which, if ten go, will gross more than $60,000 and be the richest renewal in the stakes' history.

What they are asking about Sun Again is: "Is he as good as he was as a juvenile?" If he is, most of the railbirds think he can cake-walk home.

No. 3 on our hit or miss parade is Colchis. Here's the forgotten man of racing. This colt ran 16 times, both as a juvenile and as a three year old, and was never out of the money. Then he entered the Wood Memorial, the East's derby preview at Jamaica two weeks ago, ran a bad race, finished far back — and was promptly forgotten.

MUNGER BOOSTS BIRDIES OUT OF CELLAR RATING

COLUMBUS, May 8 — By whipping the St. Paul Saints 4-1 behind the eight-hit hurling of George "Red" Munger, the Columbus Red Birds, champs of '41 and to date champs of '42, today had traded their cellar berth to the Saints for a sixth-place tie.

Although the win gave the Flock a 14 percentage point-bulge over the Saints, the American Association mural actually presents three teams tied for last place, 6 1/2 games behind the red, hot and when Milwaukee Brewers, Minneapolis joined Columbus and St. Paul in the nether regions by dropping a 9-6 tilt to the fourth-place Toledo mudhens, while Kansas City maintained its second-place perch easily by edging fifth-place Louisville, 2-1.

Milwaukee was scheduled to play host to Indianapolis, but the weatherman decreed otherwise.

Homers by Pep Young and Lew Klein highlighted the 11-hit attack of Columbus against a trio of Saint hurriers. The Toledo-Minneapolis tilt featured an elevator-like performance on the part of the Mudhens, who blew a five-run lead only to stage a four-run lucky seventh rally to win. Johnny Johnson's three-hit hurling for Kansas City, when coupled with Ziggy Sears' homer, was enough to beat Louisville's Nelson Potter, who granted only five hits and struck out nine, but walked six Millers.

SCHLITZ OUTFIT, JOHNNY CRIMMINS IN ABC EVENT

COLUMBUS, May 8 — It's tonight or never, according to the experts at the ABC tournament.

If the Chicago Schlitz can't better the 3.131 by the Chicago Budweisers, then, the boys say, you might as well give the world championship to the Buds who bowled away back there on March 18.

And if Johnny Crimmins of Detroit can't hit 1,766 in his nine game route then Ned Day retains his leadership in the 10-year average ratings. All Crimmins must do is to average 197 for the route.

He's on a tricky pair of drives (15-16) in the team event but falls into some "soft" alleys in the minors.

Nothing of sensation nature occurred yesterday other than the three Detroit teams which swarmed into the 2,800 class. Best of these was the Royal Recreation on 2,833; New Fairview hit 2,829 and Ethyl Gas slapped 2,820.

In the singles Harry Price of Portsmouth, Ohio, tickled 681 to be high for the day while Gerhard Martin and Gerhard Werher of Highland, Ill., floored 1,206 for the best of the day.

Notre Dame's own successor to Greg Rice, the great distance runner, is Oliver H. Hunter of Erie, Pa., who is a junior at the South Bend institution. As a soph last season, Hunter won the Drake Relays' two-mile run, the C. C. C. indoor championship and various meet events. He recently appeared in the Drake Relays at Des Moines. His times compare favorably with those of Rice in the latter's early meets.

DODGERS MEET GIANTS IN TILT FOR NAVY FUND

NEW YORK, May 8 — This is a proud day for baseball. The New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers clash at Ebbets field with the entire proceeds going to the Navy Relief society.

Thus the National league makes the first move in baseball's determined effort to give all possible aid to service relief societies. On August 3 the Giants and Dodgers meet at the Polo grounds with the proceeds going to the Army Relief fund.

All other teams in both leagues will follow suit later in the season in helping raise funds in like manner. The Yankees cancelled today's scheduled game with the Washington Senators in order that not a single fan be lured away from Ebbets field.

Only one game is scheduled in the American league, Boston playing at Philadelphia. In the National league, St. Louis plays at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh shows at Chicago. Only two games were played in either league yesterday, the Giants and the Pirates splitting a double-header as other games were postponed.

Pittsburgh won the opener, 2 to 1, in the eleventh inning with Alton Wilde notching his second straight victory. Bob Carpenter yielded 12 hits including a single by Elbie Fletcher to start the eleventh, and Bob Elliott's single off the left field wall after DiMaggio sacrificed.

INDIANAPOLIS WINS A. A. TROPHY FOR ATTENDANCE

COLUMBUS, May 8 — The President's trophy, awarded annually to the American association team which draws the largest opening day attendance in proportion to population, today was presented by Prexy George M. Trautman to Indianapolis, which drew 11,546 fans, or 2.98 percent of the Hoosier city's 386,972 population.

Milwaukee actually drew the largest crowd, 15,546, but that amounted to only 2.63 percent for fourth place, behind Louisville, 9,105 or 2.85 percent, and Kansas City, 11,218 or 2.81 percent.

St. Paul, Toledo, Columbus and Minneapolis finished up the league in that order. St. Paul drew 6,894 fans for 2.39 percent;

RED AND BLACK HARRIERS WIN FROM ROSARY

Victory In Broad Jump, Closing Event, Brings 59-54 Margin

Most thrilling track and field victory chalked up by Circleville high harriers in several years was put into the record books Thursday afternoon on the local field when the Tigers defeated Holy Rosary of Columbus 59 points against 54.

Just as he did against the Rosary football team when he grabbed the opening kickoff and ran 83 yards for a touchdown to be the star of the game, Tommy Shea came through in the pinch to win the last event on the schedule, the broad jump, to clinch the victory. Dud Smallwood added a third place point to help in the final victory.

Foresight by Captain Paul Seymour helped in the victory. Shea was scheduled to run in the mile relay, but Seymour believing the Rosary relay team too good, regardless, had Coach Roy Black save Shea for the broad jump where he was able to use energy he would have expended in the fruitless effort to defeat Rosary's district B championship relay quartet. The strategy brought the victory to the Tiger side.

Seymour chalked up first places in his favorites, the mile and half mile, lapping the entire field in the former event which he ran in 4 minutes 45.6 seconds. His time in the half was 2:15.2.

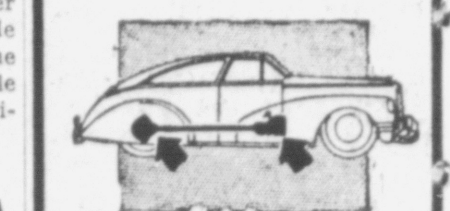

Rosary's Paul Kappes was too fast for Tiger runners in the 100-yard dash, knocking off the century in 10.6.

Summary:
High hurdles: Won by Berendt, HR, 12.5 seconds; 2. Terrill, HR, 2. Dade, C.
100-yard dash: Won by Kappes, HR, 10.6 seconds; 2. Jackson, C, 1. Yates, C.
200-yard dash: Won by Seymour, C, 4 minutes 45.6 seconds; 2. Harr, C, 3. Shaw, HR.
Shot put: Won by Shea, C, 35 feet 9 1/2 inches; 2. Sabine, C, 2. Terrill, HR.
Half mile relay: Won by Rosary, C, 2 minutes 15.2 seconds; 2. Heath, C, 3. McGovern, HR.
440-yard run: Won by Breitenreiter, HR, 12.4 seconds; 2. Shea, C, 3. Sabine, C.
Low hurdles: Won by Berendt, HR, 15 seconds; 2. Dade, C, and Terrill, HR, tied.
Half mile relay: Won by Rosary, (Schwartz, Kappes, Breitenreiter, Daugherty), 1 minute 47.4 seconds.
Discus: Won by Terrill, HR, 75 feet 10 inches; 2. Webb, C, 2. Cook, C.
Pole vault: Won by Hatz, C, 9 feet 5 inches; 2. Butler, HR, 3. Dade, C.
220 yard dash: Won by Schwartz, HR, 2:15.2 seconds; 2. Wolf, C, 3. Jackson, C.
High jump: Won by Jackson and Moon, C, tied at 5 feet 5 inches; 1. Cleary, HR.
Mile relay: Won by Rosary, (Schwartz, Kappes, Breitenreiter, Bott), 3 minutes 51.4 seconds.
Broad jump: Won by Shea, C, 18 feet 4 inches; 2. Schwartz, HR, 3. Smallwood, C.

CONSTANTINO BEATEN

NEW YORK, May 8 — Lulu Constantino today was bent on starting another victory string after he dropped an eight round, non-title bout to Chalky Wright, recognized in New York as the world featherweight champion — His first setback in 57 professional fights — at St. Nicholas palace. Experience and superior power gave the Negro battler the edge. Each fighter weighed in at 128 pounds.

Toledo, 5,450, 1.94 percent; Columbus, 4,844, 1.25 percent, and Minneapolis 5,289, 1.07 percent.

Police To Clamp Down On Parking Violators

Chief McCrady Declares That Double Lines Are Taboo In City

TICKETS TO BE ISSUED

Lights Should Be Put In Proper Condition For Night Driving

Circleville police warned local residents Friday that they have lifted their policy of leniency in respect to violations of the recently revised parking laws of the city.

Due to the ever-increasing amount of double parking in the downtown area and the danger involved by this practice, policemen have been instructed to tag all double parkers and all can expect to be fined in the future.

Police department officials have stated their desire to be "soft" on drivers until the new system of parking could be understood but due to the non-cooperation of some shoppers they have found it necessary to enforce the law.

Motorists are also advised to obey all other traffic devices and have sufficient lights on their automobiles for after night driving. "All persons who receive parking tickets and fail to appear in mayor's office will be summoned from our record of ticket stubs," Police Chief William McCrady stated.

ASHVILLE

Clarence (Doc) Swoyer, the all-around outside scout, trouble finder and picture taker for the Ohio Bell Phone company, comes through with another number of The Bell monthly magazine for us. Doc, with his camera, makes a lot of fine, life-like pictures which appear in the Bell publication each month.

"Getting along fine and better every day" is the word handed out about the several sick ones. Dave Dunnick and Mrs. J. C. Borror in a Columbus hospital will be out of there and home soon, they tell us. E. A. Snyder, P. H. Lefler, Leroy McDonald, local ones, are "on the mend", too. Rev. Charles Besch, an Ashville native and a Lutheran minister with a service of about 35 years at Canton, and seriously sick in a hospital there, is now able to be at his home and is slowly on the improve. In the not far away month of June, Rev. Besch will have been in the ministry for fifty years. And more, previous to entering the ministry, he took his turn with the 18 editors who at different periods operated the Ashville Enterprise.

Walter Morrison, who not so long ago, purchased from Mrs. Blanche Baker her west side store building and dwelling, is doing much improving about the place and when through with it may stock the store room with a line of groceries.

The village truck is kept busy these days removing ashes and rubbish from the alleys much to the improved appearance of things.

Tomorrow is junk collecting day, the start being made at 8:30. A number of nearby country homes will be included in the collection rounds.

Doctor and Mrs. Gardner were visitors at the home of Mrs. R. D. Harman in Belle Center yesterday. . . . Harman Wright, a son of Edward and Mrs. Wright and son-in-law of M. M. and Mrs. Hott, has purchased a farm a short distance out from Johnston and will occupy it now soon. They are now residents of the named village.

CHURCH MEN TO SPONSOR BIBLE CLASSES AGAIN

Regular semi-monthly session of Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood, was held Thursday evening at the parish house. After the devotional service and the transaction of routine business, a recess was declared, during which time Luther Bower and his committee of ten members served lunch.

Brotherhood members again took action to sponsor the annual bible school to be held after the close of the city schools, this being the fifteenth year that they have sponsored this organization. The average attendance last year was 150 and is not limited as to religious affiliation, with no cost what ever to the pupils attending. It is the intention, as it has been in the past, to select all teachers from the teaching force of city and county public schools. Feature of the entertainment was the address of the Rev. Jacob Dell, professor of practical theology in Capital university, who used as his subject "The Christian in War Times".

Carl C. Leist, director of Trinity Lutheran adult choir, was in charge of the music, first introducing Miss Ruth Esther Blum in two piano solos. Mr. Leist also revived the war spirit of 1918, by singing "Keep the Home Fires Burning", with the entire brotherhood joining in singing the chorus, Miss Blum playing the accompaniment.

Next regular session of the brotherhood will be held May 21, at which meeting George C. Griffith will conduct the feature of the entertainment with his demonstration in right and wrong selling—"On the Other Side of the Counter". Music for the occasion will be in charge of George Himrod and Charles Walters will be chairman of the refreshments committee.

Nazi Flier Seized

Lieut. Hans Peter Krug, 22-year-old Nazi bomber pilot who escaped from a Canadian concentration camp has been captured in San Antonio, Tex. This picture was taken of the fugitive flier after his arrest by two FBI agents and two San Antonio detectives in a small hotel where he was spotted by the manager. His capture ended a 16 day nation-wide search for the fugitive.

APPEAL VOICED FOR LABORERS IN HAWAII AREA

CINCINNATI, May 8 — A patriotic appeal for laborers for defense work at Pearl Harbor was issued today to workers in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky by D. C. Whelan, manager, sixth U. S. civil service district, which comprises these three states.

"Uncle Sam needs these workers at once," Mr. Whelan stated. "It is an opportunity for patriotic workers to do their part in strengthening the defense positions of our country. It is their chance to do their part in making it possible to hit the Japs with a two-fisted attack that much sooner and harder."

"Laborers in every city and town may apply for these jobs," Mr. Whelan said. They can get information about them by inquiring of their local postmaster. Information may also be had by writing or contacting the offices of the sixth civil service district, postoffice building, Cincinnati. Transportation and costs of trip will be provided by the Government.

DR. WALTER P. CASTOE ON PROGRAM AT CONFERENCE

Dr. Walter P. Castoe of the Methodist church of Lancaster will be guest speaker Saturday, May 9, when the Spring convention of the Youth's Fellowship of the Chillicothe district of the Methodist church is held in the Methodist church of Kingston. Registration will begin at 9:30 a. m.

Two awards will be given, an honor award for the most efficient group and an attendance award for the group having the most registered.

ROTARY HEARS HEFFNER, SEES DEFENSE FILMS

Rotarians, meeting at the Pickaway Arms Thursday, heard a report by Harry Heffner, president of the club and delegate to the recent district convention, concerning topics discussed by the club leaders at this conference.

Only visitor at the meeting was Walter Gordon of Lancaster. Robert Colville, in charge of a concert for the benefit of local civilian defense, addressed the club on the program arranged for the activity next Thursday evening and distributed tickets to the various members who will aid in the ticket sales.

Following the business portion of the meeting the group was shown two reels of film on Civilian Defense preparations, sponsored by T. E. Wilson, chairman of the local council.

"Ready On the Home Front", a picture advising home owners of their individual responsibility in case of an air raid in which their home is set afire, was greatly commended by the members for the clear way it instructs one as to the proper way to handle fires of incendiary origin.

This film also went into detail of instruction of ways home owners can best equip their homes to be safe from air raid destruction. The second picture, released by the War department, explained proper care and use of the gas mask.

Both films were shown to grade and high school pupils Thursday afternoon as a part of the Civilian Defense Council's effort to educate local residents in air raid protection.
